

Meeting with Professor Vanessa Elias de Oliveira

On April 17th, 2019, the Provost of Graduate Studies Professor Charles Morphy D. Santos invited Professor Vanessa Elias de Oliveira, coordinator of the Graduate Program in Public Politics, to debate a project in collaboration with Stephan Hollensteiner, director of the University Alliance Ruhr's Office for Latin America (Germany), between August 26th and 30th, in order to deliver to the UFABC community perspectives regarding the university's internationalization.

In a first instant, we proposed the participation of Hollensteiner in a short duration course ministrated by him. Finally, we concluded that a workshop would be more fruitful for those who will attend (professors and students). It was also discussed the possibility of inviting FAPESP and CAPES to participate in the event. Therefore, the workshop would be better allocated in São Bernardo do Campo's campus.

After defined the procedures of this proposal, professor Vanessa Oliveira proposed a project for dealing with scientific literacy and knowledge dissemination destined to the Graduate Program in Public Politics. The main goal is to translate to the community the impacts of the university's researches to society.

As discussed on the monthly meeting of the Graduate Commission (04/11), a better management in the public universities' communication and scientific divulgation field seems necessary. The proposal of inserting the graduate students in activities related to science publicization contemplates, to a great extent, professor Vanessa Olivera's proposal of democratizing the access to the knowledge created in the university.
